Burlesque Comes to Theatre Royal Winchester

A Burlesque show directed by the creative director to Kylie Minogue is coming to Theatre Royal Winchester in what promises to be a ground-breaking visual spectacle. The show will feature couture costumes, breathtaking choreography and a fabulous score created by Kylie's musical director, Steve Anderson.

An Evening of Burlesque will be lead by Miss Polly Rae, who has featured on national TV and appeared in the West End with her troupe of curvy girls, the Hurly Burly Girlies. The entertainment will be tantalising yet tasteful, camp and colourful and is enhanced by live vocal talent from the performers. This is set to be a fun-packed dance through the decades with a burlesque musical twist on contemporary songs as you've never heard them before, sung live and performed to perfection in the ultimate tease.

Burlesque is an art form with its roots in music hall theatre which is undergoing a popular revival lead by performers such as Dita von Teese and is now establishing itself in the West End of London and other UK cities. The show contains partial or 'suggested' nudity and has an age recommendation of 18+.

The show is generously sponsored by Boudoir Blush who will be handing out discount vouchers at the event which can be used in their gorgeous boutique in Parchment Street.

Theatre Royal Winchester also invites ticket-holders to bring along old or unwanted bras on the night for a charity collection by the Hampshire & Isle of Wight Air Ambulance.

"Watch out Dita, there's a new kid on the block ready to take your crown," The Sun
